China camping charger station in France

How many charging stations are there in France?

This information is provided by the most popular booking platforms, including Gites de France, or directly by the accommodation providers. According to the European interoperability platform GIREVE, more than 2,000 charging stations are available in hotels, restaurants and small businesses in France.

Where can I find the best Chargers in France?

Some of the best chargers in the country are hosted by Lidl, doing some shopping when charging at 50kW speeds, no RFID needed. This is quite special in France, because next to the highway at the Corri-Door/Sodetrel/Izivia chargers you mostly receive 40kW max at abysmal prices.

What are the best charging cards in France?

Freshmile (you need this one for free charging in Bordeaux but also a lot of local slow charging will be supported with this one). KiWhi (might be the most important card in France, if this one doesn't work, you made it to the end of civilisation). Belib (necessary for affordable charging in Paris).

Should you use a local charging card in France?

The importance of local charging cards is hard to overstate. Of course your apps might work over 90% of the time. QR codes on many machines will also help, but might lead to a very cumbersome website (believe me, I've been there in the blistering heat). France is not flat, and like Germany, 4G can be very hit & miss when out and about.
