
The impact of abnormal wind power on solar container communication stations

Nowadays, we often see the word impact being used as a verb. My question is, should it be always followed by the preposition on? Oxford Dictionaries gives the following ...

This change has no impact in the system's current behaviour. Is the preposition in grammatical here? I think we should have used on instead: This change has no impact on the ...

As a note, I would find the transitive use, "The court ruling will impact the education of minority students," to be perfectly clear, but the intransitive use, "The court ruling ...

Is there a grammarians' consensus as to the usage of impact (as a verb)? Should it always take the preposition on or is it a matter of personal preference?
