
Which is better high voltage or low voltage inverter

I see "you better do something" as a short spoken form of "you had better do something". "Had" better is an idiom meaning "you should do" and "it would be better if you did".

While "Are you feeling better" refers to someone, let's say, who catches a cold and the next day you raise the question "Are you feeling better now?". You can use "are you feeling ...

You will probably find "better than I" recommended by most grammar books, but "better than me" on the lips of most colloquial speakers.

So, "it's better" is correct even without expressing "rather than individual ones", isn't it? I think it is better for teenagers to play team sports at school for all the benefits they have ...

Is the first version ("I better") grammatically correct? So can we use it instead of "I'd better"? On the internet people say there is a slight difference between them but I couldn't get if ...

You can certainly say that, effect3. "Better" can be used as a verb to replace "improve" with the same meaning. But I don't think you have improved the clarity of the ...

Whether you use "the less the better", "the fewer the better" or "the smaller the better" depends on what adjective fits for the noun that you are talking about.
